being exhibited in 'dog shows,'" ranted the star, who heads the Doris Day Animal Foundation.

"I want to stress that I firmly oppose the Center project and I insist that my name never be mentioned to the contrary."

The 47-acre site was to be a private Canine Country Club and also used for dog shows. Plans for the controversial center were firmly rejected by Monterey County Supervisors Oct. 27.

Some locals wondered why the star was even getting involved, since she "hardly ever comes out of her house," says a source.

She was last seen on April 3 — her 91st birthday — on the balcony of her home overlooking the Quail Ridge Golf Course.

Crippled Doris arthritis, she needs a cane to get around, and she's reportedly plagued with kidney problems and failing eyesight.

"But don't let those limitations fool you," adds a source.

"She went to war — and she won!"

-DONNA BLANCHARD

WHEN Hollywood legend Doris Day speaks, people listen!

Just days after she came out of seclusion and publicly opposed plans for a fancy dog park near her cliff-top home in Carmel, Calif., the project has been killed!

"Doris is alive and kicking, and she kicked up a storm over this," says a source.

In an angry letter emailed to the "Monterey Herald" newspaper, the 91-year-old "Pillow Talk" star made her feelings clear.

"I understand that at the Monterey County Planning Commission meeting on Aug. 26, my name was brought up, giving the impression that I would be in favor of the Carmel Canine Sports Center project because of my love of animals.

"I want it to be known that I am NOT in favor of this project. I have never been in favor of dogs

SANDRA BULLOCK GETTING HITCHED!

Clooney convinces co-star to take another chance on marriage

IT'S wedding bells for Sandra Bullock!

She is so in love with photographer and model Bryan Randall that she's headed for the altar, say pals.

The marriage even has the blessing of her closest friend, actor George Clooney!

"George is telling Sandra not to be scared to take the plunge again," says a source.

"He knows she's gun-shy after her marriage to Jesse James exploded in a cheating scandal five years ago.

"But he's met Bryan and likes him. And he sees how happy he's making Sandra."

George, 54, finally gave up his own single status last year when he wed international law and human rights attorney Amal Alamuddin.

"He's telling Sandra that if he can find true love again, so can she," adds the source.

Sandra, 51, and 49-year-old Bryan were secretly dating for months and only recently went public.

Things quickly heated up after she introduced him to close friends — including Jennifer Aniston and Justin Theroux — at a July 4 party at her home in Austin, Texas.

A month later, Bryan was Sandra's plus-one at Jennifer and Justin's surprise wedding.

Then he accompanied her to the L.A. premiere of her new movie, "Our Brand Is Crisis," which co-stars George. Sandra and her man were also seen holding hands as they strolled the red carpet!

"Sandra wouldn't be willing to face public scrutiny if she wasn't serious about this guy," says an insider.

Bryan is her first boyfriend in five years and, like her ex-husband, Jesse, he has a bad-boy past.

He was picked up on a DUI in 1988, tore up a hotel room in 1990 and had an order of protection levied against him by a neighbor who claimed Bryan menaced him in 2012.

But both Sandra and Bryan have told pals this is the beginning of an exciting new chapter in their lives.

Says a source: "He is a true family man but he has an edge. That's very appealing to Sandra. She's convinced she's found the one."

HILLARY COCAINE

Clinton suffered scary overdoses

BILL Clinton has a shocking addiction to cocaine — which led to a near-fatal overdose and a secret stay at a Minnesota drug rehab center!

That's the explosive claim in a blockbuster new book by a former White House aide, who charges the ex-President's ruthless wife, Hillary, has masterminded an elaborate cover-up of Bill's drug problems for decades and continues to hide it from the world!

Bestselling author Roger Stone, who served in Richard Nixon's White House, tells GLOBE the former Commander-in-Chief, who now suffers from heart problems and Parkinson's disease, has repeatedly received drug therapy. And Bill was even hospitalized for an overdose! Stone insists Bill's drug problems exploded when he was governor of Arkansas from 1979 to 1981 and when he held office again from 1983 to 1992.

The bombshell disclosures in Stone's tell-all, "The Clintons' War on Women," could cripple Hillary's run for the presidency. "After Bill Clinton dropped out of the presidential race in July 1987, his handlers set about trying to 'clean him up' for future political campaigns," Stone writes. "Part of this process, even if Bill's womanizing could not be stopped, was to send Bill off to a drug rehab clinic."

Stone says Larry Nichols, then a member of the Clintons'

Larry Nichols

notorious "Kitchen Cabinet," was told by Bill's chief of staff Betsey Wright that Bill was put in rehab to "get off cocaine."

"Nichols believes this was probably the Betty Ford Clinic in Minnesota, and Wright told Nichols that Clinton had been sent to drug rehab more than once," adds Stone.

And Stone claims it is Hillary who has been behind the plot abuse and overdose and had to be cared for at the hospital on one or possibly two occasions,” Stone writes.

And journalist Christopher Ruddy reported: “When Mrs. Clinton arrived, she told both of the resident physicians on duty that night that they would never again practice medicine in the United States if word leaked out about Clinton’s drug problem. Reportedly, Hillary pinned one of the doctors up against the wall, both hands pressed against his shoulders, as she gave the dire warning.”

Well-known secrets

Bill’s other women, including ex-Miss Arkansas Sally Perdue and busty songbird Gennifer Flowers, also knew about his drug use, says Stone.

He writes: “Sally said, ‘He (Bill) had all of the (cocaine snorting) equipment laid out, like a real pro.’”

Meanwhile, Gennifer said Bill would carry marijuana joints around and sometime smoke them in her presence. She added that she never personally saw Bill use cocaine, but he would talk about it and the effect it had on him. “He told me about a party he had been to, and said, ‘I got so fed up on cocaine at that party,’” she said.

In another incident, Stone says “that while on family vacation in Boca Raton, Fla., Bill snuck away to the bathroom of a local restaurant and apparently was doing cocaine in a stall.

Asked by a pal if he was okay, Stone says Bill replied: “Yeah, yeah ... those damned sinuses are killing me.”

Writes Stone, “Hillary covered all this up and when it gets out it’s really going to hurt her campaign — BIG TIME!”

99-LB. KATE'S WASTING AWAY!

William fears wife is too skinny to get pregnant again

SCARY-SKINNY Kate has lost so much weight that husband Prince William is terrified she won't be able to have more children, sources tell GLOBE!

"Kate's always been slim, but now she's down to skin and bones," says an insider. "She must be under 100 lbs. — when, at 5-foot-9, she should be closer to 140."

"Now William is worried his wife won't be able to conceive if she doesn't turn things around. And he knows that will break her heart."

Kate has always said she wants a large family. Friends have revealed she's desperate to have a sibling for her son George and daughter Charlotte as soon as she can. But with her weight dropping, "there's no way that's going to happen right now," the insider says.

The 33-year-old Duchess of Cambridge drew audible gasps from onlookers at the star-studded Oct. 26 world premiere of the latest James Bond movie, "Spectre," wearing a sheer, blue, full-length, open-backed gown that did nothing to hide her slight frame. "Even her hands looked bony," says an eyewitness.

"And her shoulder blades looked like sharp wings. You have to wonder if she has some sort of eating disorder."

Stress is main cause

Sources close to Kate say the most likely reason for her dramatic weight loss is the extreme stress building over recent weeks, including dealing with relentless attacks from William's evil stepmother, Camilla.

"Kate's bitterly disappointed Queen Elizabeth backtracked on her vow to make her and William next in line for the throne," says the insider. "Her Majesty's decision to hand it over to Charles and Camilla is crushing."

"And that's only made the devious

NOTHING BUT BONES

Kate looked fragile at the premiere of "Spectre"

Camilla even keener to twist the knife.

"Hearing Camilla boast about becoming queen makes Kate sick."

"That's why she's been faithfully carrying out her royal duties, no matter how exhausted she feels."

The week before the movie premiere Kate attended her first state banquet at Buckingham Palace — to honor Chinese President Xi Jinping — but observers noticed the stress etched on her face.

Then, the day after attending the Spectre red carpet event, she was on an official visit to a child mentoring program in London. "Kate wants to show The Queen and the people of Great Britain that she is worthy of the Crown, and NOT Camilla," says a Palace insider.

"But she's simply stressed out."

William worries Kate is facing heartbreak

WILLIE NELSON, 82, FACING LAST DAYS!

-PALS FEAR

COUNTRY music king Willie Nelson is working himself to death, friends fear.

And the 82-year-old legend is ignoring warning every sign — even after he was forced to cancel several concert dates due to a mysterious illness.

“Willie would rather tear off his left arm than break a commitment to play a show, so for him to cancel a string of concerts — it’s really kinda scary,” says a source.

“Retirement isn’t a word in his vocabulary.”

And Willie doesn’t appear interested in adding it any time soon.

“I don’t care how much it hurts, I’ll be on the road, playin’ until the day I die,” Willie told a pal.

Friends fear he’s running out of time.

Willie canceled and then rescheduled three shows with Merle Haggard on their new Django and Jimmie Tour due to a medical issue that he’s been keeping top secret.

In 2012, the “On the Road Again” singer — who suffers from emphysema — had to ax

Denver-area shows when he was hospitalized with breathing troubles. Now there are rumors he uses marijuana to hide a more serious ailment — like maybe cancer!

Nelson, wed to fourth wife Annie since 1991, has sworn off booze and other drugs, saying cigarettes were killing him.

“I had to start trying to stay alive or I was going to die,” Willie explains. “Staying busy is important.”

But friends fear his nonstop touring is a death warrant.

Kurvaceous Kim

EAT your hearts out, Kim Kardashian and Jennifer Lopez! Your rumps can't hold a candle to the gals vying for the title of Miss BumBum in Brazil — where bodacious behinds are worshipped.

Incredibly, while the booty prize is only $12,235, the winner can make a fortune posing for magazines, giving endorsements, making appearances and taking some shocking steps.

Last year's Miss BumBum, Indianara Carvalho, triggered a scandal by undergoing surgery to make her seem like a virgin again. And then she "lost it" to a man who plunked down a whopping $75,000!

This fierce quest for fame and fortune is why the pageant has become the most ferocious beauty contest in the world. "These aren't your typical smiling, girl-next-door Miss Americas," says an insider. "The contestants here are hellcats with huge bouncing butts."

And the backstabbing is no-holds-barred with insults, threats and even voodoo flying among the 27 finalists, who are herded into the Miss BumBum mansion and spend the final days of the contest living together.

"Nobody trusts anyone," says Jennifer Camacho, 30.

Luciane Hoepers, 29, charges fellow contestants with offering $120 to gouge out her eyes. She even claims they used voodoo to make her car break down.

Another gal calls fellow finalists "stuck-up girls" who've padded their butts with plastic surgery while their faces "look like an old wrinkled passion fruit."

"A lot of these hags look more like transvestites," she snorts.

Many of the original 500 contestants spared no expense with nips and tucks, liposuction and padding operations. One girl admitted having two ribs removed so her waist would look smaller and her behind appear bigger!

"But for the finalists in the mansion, it's dirty tricks and psychological warfare," says the insider.

"No one is friends with anyone," says finalist Sabrina Boing Boing. "Most of the women can't even bear to look at each other in the eyes."

"But when they have passed by, they take a good look at their bumbum to check out the competition!"

Ava Gardner and Frank Sinatra divorced in '57

SINATRA DIDN'T GO ALL THE WAY!

FRANK Sinatra slept with hundreds, if not thousands, of women – but Ol' Blue Eyes' charm wasn't irresistible!

In fact, a new book, "Sinatra: The Chairman" by James Kaplan, reveals the singer was particularly unlucky between his 1957 divorce from Ava Gardner and 1964 hookup with much younger Mia Farrow.

But it wasn't for lack of trying!

He chased songbird Billie Holiday, his biggest musical influence, but couldn't get to first base with the notorious drug addict.

When he flirted with her in 1959 as she lay in a Harlem hospital, the jazz legend told him, "Will you cut the s-t, baby, and get me some dope?"

And when he proposed to socialite Edith Mayer Goetz, she famously replied, "Why Frank, I couldn't marry you, you're nothing but a hoodlum."

NIGHTMARE

Michael Baden, 80, to investigate and conduct their own autopsy.

"Carmel's family clearly suspects foul play," says former Chicago cop-turned-Hollywood private eye Paul Huebl.

"They flew to Bora Bora, then hired Baden so they obviously have many unanswered questions."

The group of celebrities, including Jason Bateman and Jimmy Kimmel, were invited to join Aniston, 46, and Theroux, 44, on their honeymoon on the South Pacific island, after the pair secretly tied the knot in the backyard of their Bel Air mansion on Aug. 5.

According to local reports, Musgrove wasn't feeling well Aug. 18, and went to her bungalow.

"She was last seen around midnight, by room service," says a source. "At noon the next day, she didn't answer her door, but it wasn't until 7 p.m. that cops were called and a search launched. Just after midnight — it's now Aug. 20 — her body is found."

A preliminary inspection found no signs of violence, injury or bleeding, and officials say her death was an apparent drowning. Her body was taken to Papeete for autopsy. But the family, suspecting foul play, demanded a second post mortem examination.

But private eye Huebl tells GLOBE, "A serious police investigation is needed to solve this young woman's death."

Michael Baden

"If she was feeling unwell, why would she go swimming by herself?"

"It will take several weeks for toxicology tests to reveal if she had alcohol and/or legal or illegal drugs in her system."

"Detectives need to speak to everyone who saw Carmel, spoke to her or spent time with her from the moment she arrived on the island — and that includes Aniston and Theroux," who are not considered to have any role in the tragedy.

"Did some one see anyone shady with her?," says Huebl. "Could someone have given her a drug that weakened her?"

"There is no cloak of privacy for a celebrity when there is a death to probe."

"Carmel died four thousand miles from home. Her family will want Baden to make sure procedures were followed like they would be in the U.S."

"She left for the vacation of a lifetime and never came back. The family deserves answers and her celebrity friends may unwittingly have them."

You remember her best as miniskirt-wearing lovelorn lawyer Ally McBeal and buttoned-down Kitty Walker on "Brothers and Sisters," but Calista Flockhart's also played leading lady to a neurotic comedian, a whip-wielding hunk and a furry friend.

Here are 10 things you don't know about the angular actress. Fabulous at 50, she's back on TV after a four-year absence as no-nonsense media mogul Cat Grant on CBS's "Supergirl."

1. Calista means "most beautiful" in Greek. As a kid she used to call herself "Ann and Jennifer" because I couldn't stand the trauma of being teased."

2. When she was a struggling actress in New York City in the late 1980s, her brother sent her a case of canned ravioli to make sure she ate.

3. The success of FOX's "Ally McBeal" made TV critics ask, "Is feminism dead?"

4. She had an off-and-on relationship with funnyman Garry

10 THINGS

YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT CALISTA FLOCKHART

Shandling for a few years.

5. Her best pal was a terrier, Webster, who had to be put down in 2004.

6. She was offered Teri Hatcher's role of Susan on "Desperate Housewives" but turned it down.

7. New Mexico Gov. Bill Richardson performed her June 2010 wedding ceremony to Harrison Ford.

8. She met Harrison at the 2002 Golden Globes – when she spilled wine all over him!

9. She likes to go naked: "I don't wear a lot of make-up. I really don't like it. I just think it's really ugly."

10. She thinks it's "a really good idea" for her new character Cat to become "romantically involved" with Supergirl!

NO SELFIES FOR SOPHIA!

SOPHIA LOREN, one of the world's most beautiful women, has ugly things to say about today's plastic surgery and selfie obsessed society.

"These young girls really need to be more careful and selective of what they are doing to their bodies and their faces," says the star, who won the 1962 Oscar for "Two Women." "You do not know for sure if you are going to a good doctor (so) you can end up looking worse than what you thought you originally were."

Sophia, 81, also slams modern celebrity, which seems forced and is frequently based on notoriety.

"In my time, an actress' merit and skill was based on her talent," she says. "Now, when people meet me, they pull out their phones to take pictures."

"I do not know much about social media, but it seems that's what makes people more famous."

SEX CULT BUTO

Marine's wife

THE VICTIM

Beautiful Brittany Killgore fell victim to a band of twisted sex fiends, who tortured and strangled her after she refused to join in their S&M horrors

A TWISTED dungeon master and his two female sex slaves tortured and then killed the beautiful young wife of a U.S. Marine after she refused to join their sick games — and then dumped her mutilated body like garbage!

Gorgeous brunette Brittany Killgore, 22, thought she had found a new friend when Marine Sgt. Louis Perez volunteered to help her move out of her apartment while her estranged hubby Cory, also a Marine, was on duty in Afghanistan.

“Party with me tonight & you’ll have five guys there in the morning,” Perez texted Brittany. But Brittany had no clue about the sick, sinister plan behind Perez’s invitation.

Unknown to the young woman, perverted Perez, 49, led a secret sex cult that delighted in sadomasochistic role play. He served as master during sessions in his homemade sex dungeon with his live-in lovers.

Dorothy Maraglino, 40, and Jessica Lopez, 28, were his dutiful slaves. They had kinky sessions in a special room filled with whips, sex toys, gags, ropes, pulleys, duct tape and other bondage gear.

Brittany was last seen alive at 5 p.m. on April 13, 2012, near her home in Fallbrook, Calif. Sometime later, GLOBE has learned, Perez and his lovers

THE MASTER
Cops say Louis Perez and his "slaves" killed Brittany, mutilated the corpse and dumped her in a ditch lured her into their den of deviance. Police say Brittany refused to join their sleazy sex play, but the twisted trio wouldn't take no for an answer and slapped her in handcuffs!

Brittany was tortured as part of a sick XXX-rated game — and strangled to death. Her body was mutilated, cut into pieces and dumped in a ditch 100 miles away near Los Angeles.

Cops caught a break when a good Samaritan bought Brittany's phone from a homeless man April 14 — and called Brittany's mother to return it. Brittany's mom asked cops to search for her missing daughter. Her naked body was found three days later.

That same day, sex slave Lopez was arrested in a San Diego Ramada Inn after slashing her wrists and leaving a suicide note "confessing" to Brittany's murder. Lopez said she zapped Brittany with a stun gun, wrapped a rope around her neck, buried her face in a pillow and strangled her.

Feared a love rival

In the note Lopez claimed she killed Brittany because she was afraid the young beauty would steal Perez's affections. Maraglino, Lopez's "owner," was pregnant with Perez's son at the time of the murder.

Lopez admitted using a knife, "power tools" and bleach to chop up Brittany's body — and insisted that she acted alone! But the cops say she just wanted to clear her masters of the crime.

Investigators found Brittany's blood and DNA in Perez's car and said all three S&M cultists kidnapped her and made her "an unwilling participant" in bondage and torture. Prosecutors stunned the court by saying the trio killed Brittany "for their own sadistic pleasure."

The killers insisted their sexcapades were consensual. But a California jury didn't buy it, convicting all three of kidnapping, torture and attempted sexual battery. Now the killers face life in prison without parole.

"Our daughter was a beautiful young woman, inside and out," said Brittany's mom, Michelle Wrest. "She ran across people that were not good. They were monsters, and took her life. She is going to be missed for the rest of our lives."

GIRL'S SKETCH PUTS BURGLAR IN PEN!

-COPS SAY

DAMNING DRAWING

INK-CREDIBLE ARTIST

Rebecca DePietro used her talents to catch a crook

ASCHOOLGIRL'S sharp eye and artistic talent helped collar a suspected burglar accused of breaking into her house and almost a dozen other homes!

When Stratford, Conn., cops investigating a rash of robberies knocked on 11-year-old Rebecca DePietro's door, the young sleuth recalls, "They asked me if I'd seen anyone strange or who didn't belong, and I said, 'I can draw him for you!'

"I just knelt down here in the living room next to my bench and grabbed a pencil and took two or three minutes to draw the picture. Afterwards, I figured he [the detective] would just throw it away."

But police treated the sketch as a key clue.

The detective faxed Rebecca's drawing to other nearby departments. The picture led cops straight to Pedro Bruno, who was already in custody in nearby Fairfield after being accused of trying to rob an 82-year-old man with a toy gun while breaking into his home.

Bruno, 32, from Bridgeport, Conn., had refused to talk.

ACCUSED CROOK

Pedro Bruno confessed after he saw Rebecca's sketch, police say

But police say when they showed him Rebecca's sketch and told him they had a witness, he sang like a canary.

"Police say they went into his apartment and recovered many stolen items," says

Rebecca's proud dad, Paul, who lost an iPod and jewelry in a burglary just a week after she drew her sketch.

"Unfortunately, no items were found from our house."

As for his talented daughter, he said: "I'm very proud of her. The police captain told us that this is unprecedented. He's never seen anything like what she did."

The local police department honored Rebecca for her help, giving her a civilian recognition award.

But the amateur crime-buster remains humble about her artistic talents, saying: "I don't think I'm the best, but I think I'm pretty good. I have art hanging up in the Stratford Board of Education building!"

One-time Subway pitchman and full-time pervert Jared Fogle is the worst type of scumbag!

While shockingly building a stash of sick child pornography, the 38-year-old famous former fatty was having sex with kids.

Of course, you remember Jared. He's the guy who lost 200 pounds stuffing his face with sandwiches from Subway. His feel-good story became so popular he became the face of the sandwich chain.

He was the type of guy you would look at and say: "If this schlub could do it, so can I."

Not anymore.

Court documents reveal Fogle had sex in hotels with two girls under age 18, one of whom was 16 at the time.

Both are now adults, as are two of the 12 kids prosecutors say were victimized by Fogle's failure to alert cops a pal was producing child porn using hidden cameras.

Prosecutors say Fogle received photos and videos of several of those 12 kids. And they maintain he played a role in victimizing ALL of them because he knew they were kids – some as young as 13 or 14 – but failed to tell authorities.

Now he's agreed to pay all of his 14 victims $100,000 each and he'll likely go away to prison for at least five years when he's sentenced on Nov. 19.

Not good enough if you ask me.

DYING VALERIE HARPER SELLS HER TREASURES!

DYING Valerie Harper opened her home to fans and neighbors — and sold off all her belongings in a shocking three-day estate sale! “It was a case of ‘everything must go!’” says a source.

A garage full of memorabilia included the Golden Globe Valerie won for hit show “Rhoda” — it sold for just $20 — framed Emmy Award nominations, costumes, scripts, posters and “even a glass paperweight given to her by her former co-star and longtime friend Mary Tyler Moore!”

Says the source, “And there were antiques, household goods, furniture, books, dishes, jewelry — even wigs.

“It was like Valerie was clearing everything out and getting ready for her final curtain.”

The 76-year-old actress was diagnosed with terminal brain cancer almost three years ago and given just months to live. But she has defied doctors’ dire predictions. She even competed on the grueling ABC show “Dancing with the Stars” in late 2013!

She credits her doctors, a drug called Tarceva, some alternative therapies such as Chinese herbal medicine, acupuncture — and a positive attitude — with helping her beat the odds.

But on July 29, while starring in the musical “Nice Work If You Can Get It” at a Maine playhouse, she collapsed backstage and was rushed to a hospital. She blamed a complication with medication and was replaced by Brenda Vaccaro.

“Sadly, it looks like time is running out for Valerie,” says another source.

“Since her diagnosis, she has been getting her affairs in order. She finally made a will and planned her own funeral.

“She said it wasn’t fair to leave those arrangements to the family.

Valerie — who married Tony Cacciotti, now 76, in 1987 and adopted Cristina, who was then 4 years old, the next year — confesses she’s prepared to die and is at peace.

“I’m ready to go,” she said. “I’m not scared of death.

“I think you just take each day and get the best out of it.”

ANDY Griffith and his second banana Don Knotts came off as shy country bumpkins on their hit sitcom set in fictional Mayberry, North Carolina.

But they used their squeaky-clean act to fool America and mask their twisted real lives.

Now, a just-released blockbuster book, "Andy & Don," rips the lid off the shameful secrets of the beloved stars who played Sheriff Andy Taylor and his bumbling deputy Barney Fife on the popular series, which ran from 1960 to 1968.

Written by Don's brother-in-law Daniel De Visé, the book brands both men sex-crazed womanizers who cheated on their first wives, going on secret double dates with their mistresses.

He also reveals Andy's shocking dark rages. The actor wrecked hotel rooms and smashed car windshields during fits of fury that also kept his cast and crew quaking in terror!

"Most of us were deathly afraid of Andy," confesses George Lindsey, who played Goober Pyle on the sitcom.

But two people who weren't cowed by Andy were his lifelong buddy Don and Aneta Corsaut, who played Helen Crump, his girlfriend, on the sitcom. She became his real-life lover almost immediately after joining the cast in 1963.

"Andy couldn't get enough of three times, as Aneta hinted in later years,” writes the author.

“She turned him down.”

Adds her brother Jesse: “She wanted to keep her personal freedom.”

Aneta also kept Andy on the hook until her death in 1995, 17 years before his 2012 passing.

From 1987 to 1992, he cast her in roles on his hit lawyer series, “Matlock.”

But the author says party-hardy Andy bedded other women, too, including stunning actress Joanna Moore, who appeared in four episodes of “The Andy Griffith Show,” and later wed Ryan O’Neal and was the mother of his daughter Tatum.

His manager said Andy “loved sex.”

Andy was married to Solica Casuto from 1975 to 1981 and Cindi Knight from 1983 until his death, but his deepest relationships were with Aneta and Don, says the book.

Don and Andy became fast friends after co-starring on Broadway in “No Time for Sergeants” in 1955.

Don helped keep Andy's dark side in check.

But Andy's rages got worse after Don left Mayberry over a Medical news YOU can use!

BEST WAY TO TREAT BACK PAIN

YOU may be better off going to the drug store than the emergency room if you're experiencing severe low back pain!

A surprising study indicates prescription muscle relaxants didn't offer more pain relief than over-the-counter medications. And non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, or NSAIDs, eased back agony to the same extent as more powerful painkillers. What's more, chiropractic therapy, massage, acupuncture, stretching, yoga and exercise also don't appear to provide more relief, either!

And it didn't seem to matter how you injured your back.

"Some patients slept in an awkward position, some twisted the wrong way, some were in minor car accidents, some didn't stretch before going to the gym or lifted something too heavy," said Dr. Benjamin W. Friedman, who spearheaded the research at Montefiore Medical Center in the Bronx, N.Y.

Friedman's team studied 323 low-back pain patients and treated them with different medications. About half still had "persistent functional impairment" after a week of treatment, said Friedman. Checked a month later, patients reported little difference in the amount of pain they felt — regardless of treatment!

Three months after entering the ER for help, almost 25 percent still felt moderate to severe pain requiring medication!

Says Dr. Richard A. Deyo of Oregon Health and Science University in Portland: "This study may encourage more cautious use of opioids and muscle relaxants for acute back pain, resulting in fewer side effects."

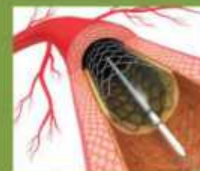

BOXERS BOOST FATHERHOOD!

+ Guys who wear boxers instead of briefs increase their chances of having kids! Men who want children should also go to bed nude, researchers say, because cooler temperatures help preserve sperm quality. Of the 501 dads-to-be that were studied, those who wore boxers and no underwear at night had 25 percent lower levels of damaged DNA in their sperm.

NEW HEART STENT FIGHTS CLOTTING

+ A new heart stent opens blood vessels, then dissolves slowly over three years after releasing medicine to fight clotting and boost blood flow. The Absorb stent, made of a degradable material, has an advantage over a permanent metal implant because it eliminates after-procedure clotting and gives patients more options for future treatment, docs say. Stents are used on about 850,000 heart disease patients each year.

VITAMIN C HELPS YOU LIVE LONGER

A GLASS of fruit or veggie juice high in vitamin C in the morning will extend your life!

High concentrations of vitamin C in the bloodstream have been linked to a reduced risk of cardiovascular disease, according to new research. The vitamin – found in orange juice, leafy greens, berries, tomatoes, broccoli and peas – helps build connective tissue and supports the function of organs and tissues.

In addition, it is a strong antioxidant that protects cells and molecules from damage caused by diseases.

"We can see that those with the highest intake of fruit and vegetables have a 15 percent lower risk of developing cardiovascular disease and a 20 percent lower risk of early death compared with those who very rarely eat fruit and vegetables," said Dr. Camilla Korycki of the University of Copenhagen.

The study, published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, is based on the medical records of 100,000 Danes, their fruit and vegetable intake and their DNA.

ANDY & DON'S CHEATING WAYS

money dispute. Don felt he was paid "chump change" compared to Andy, who owned part of the show and was making $1 million a year.

Don asked to become a 50/50 partner. When Andy refused, Don left to make movies – and the remaining cast and family members felt the Griffith wrath.

A friend says Andy's white-hot rages were "unbearable." Once, he trashed a Manhattan hotel room. During a furious fight with wife Barbara, he punched out a car windshield. A source notes Andy later admitted seeing a shrink for more than a dozen years to control his rages and the feeling of worthlessness that tormented him.

"My life has been affected by an almost total feeling of inadequacy," he explained.

"It's been with me my whole life."

Andy was especially bitter – and jealous – over the Emmy Awards and the critical acclaim that Don won. It fueled their rift.

But Andy was holding Don's hand when his pal died at age 81 from lung cancer in 2006.

"Andy said, 'Breathe. You gotta pull through,' and told Don he loved him before he died," says the book.

SUCCESS HASN'T SPOILED OPIE!

THE one star who seems to have had a charmed life is Ron Howard, who played Andy's son Opie on the show.

He later saw success as a teen starring as Richie Cunningham on "Happy Days" before going behind the camera to direct a long list of movie blockbusters.

His A-list hits include "Splash," "Cocoon," "Apollo 13" and "The Da Vinci Code." He won an Oscar for helming the Russell Crowe flick "A Beautiful Mind."

Now 61, he's still wed to his high school sweetheart, Cheryl Alley, mom of his kids Bryce Dallas Howard, 34; twins Paige and Jocelyn, 30; and son Reed, 28. Actress Bryce recently starred in "Jurassic World."

"Ron's lived a storybook life, which is very odd for Hollywood," says a showbiz insider. "He loved his days on Andy's show and always tried to keep in touch with the cast. 'He went on to great success, but it never went to his head.'"

CRUEL ANDY BROKE AUNT BEE'S HEART!

FRANCES Bavier, who played lovable Aunt Bee, was filled with bitterness in her final days, believing that Andy Griffith had turned his back on her.

An insider says the 86-year-old actress was heartbroken when she died in 1989 after a brave battle with cancer, because "she thought Andy would always remain her dear friend."

"But to her bitter disappointment, once the show was over in 1968, Andy forgot all about her."

When the cast got together for a made-for-TV reunion movie, "Return to Mayberry," in 1986, Frances was already too sick to appear.

But she was devastated to see her beloved character was killed off in the flick.

JIM NABORS' WEDDING TO ROCK HUDSON

Rock Hudson

Jim and his husband, Stan Cadwallader (left), finally married in 2013, and live in Hawaii

■ WHILE Jim Nabors was playing lovable dimwit Gomer Pyle, he was hiding a shocking secret that he feared would destroy his career – he was gay!

Today, actors have few qualms about coming out of the closet. But in the '60s, when Jim was starring on "The Andy Griffith Show," stars hid their homosexuality.

Still, rumors leaked out in the early '70s that he was going to marry another closeted star, movie leading man Rock Hudson, who would later die of AIDS.

Many believed the buzz, which included a punch line that Rock was going to change his last name to that of Jim's famous TV character – making him Rock Pyle.

Jim finally admitted to being gay when he wed longtime lover Stan Cadwallader in 2013. "We've been together for 38 years and I'm not ashamed of people knowing. It's just that it was such a personal thing," he says.

Now 85, he has survived both a liver transplant and stroke, and lives in Hawaii with Stan.

'GOOBER' DROVE GEORGE TO DRINK!

■ WHEN Jim Nabors left Andy's show in 1964 for "Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C.," George Lindsey came onboard as Gomer Pyle's goofy cousin, Goober.

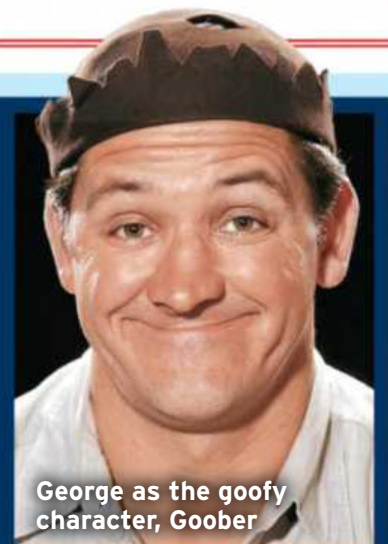

George continued on as Goober Pyle for 20 years on the country music show "Hee Haw," but the typecasting drove him to drink.

"After 'Andy Griffith,' I wasn't George Lindsey," he said. "I was Goober. I expected a variety of roles, but Goober didn't let that happen."

At one point, he became so bitter he got into a fist fight with "Gilligan's Island" star Bob Denver – over who was the better actor.

He finally beat the bottle and was sober for three years before dying at the age of 83 from a stroke in 2012.

George as the goofy character, Goober

And in his later years, he finally embraced his inner Goober.

"I was wrong all those years when I felt trapped in that character," he said.

JENNIFER Garner is giving wayward husband Ben Affleck a second chance and calling off the couple's divorce, GLOBE has learned!

"Jen realized she's never going to find anyone as great as Ben," a family insider reveals.

"Sure, he has his issues, but she says he's still the kindest, smartest man she's ever met and she made a big mistake letting him go."

But a top relationship expert warns Jen is crazy to reconcile before Ben deals with his demons — and she figures out why she REALLY wants him back.

"Ben has an addictive personality, and most women take a guy like this back because they believe that SOMEHOW they can change him," says Dr. Gilda Carle.

"But the only male you'll ever change is the one you raise from diapers!

"Unless these two resolve the issues they had before, the marriage won't have a chance."

The 10-year union exploded in June after Ben, 43, was accused of having an affair with Christine Ouzounian, 28, nanny to the couple's three kids, Violet, 9, Seraphina, 6, and Samuel, 3.

While he denied cheating, she reportedly told friends they WERE intimate. The Nannygate scandal pushed Jen, 43, over the edge.

"She was already sick of Ben's gambling and drinking, the time they spent apart and constant rumors of his flirting and cheating," says a source.

Ben was caught cheating with stripper Tammy Morris in 2003, which reportedly broke up his engagement to Jennifer Lopez.

Tammy later said of Ben, "Once a cheater, always a cheater."

Ben and Jen have been in therapy since the split, says the insider.

"He apologized for everything he put her through over the years and promised to try harder to be a better man," adds the source.

Jen wasn't expecting such an honest confession and that's why she decided to forgive him and give their marriage another chance."

But Dr. Carle fears Ben's "self-serving behavior" is just going to occur again and Jen is denying the "potentially disastrous repercussions."

"I believe everyone can be redeemed," she says, "But it will take hard work."

YOUR HOROSCOPE

For the week of November 16 - November 22

by Emily Hamer-West

ARIES March 21 - April 20

Make give-and-take your mantra and you'll find life easier. Sure, Jupiter's keeping your needs foremost in your mind, but if you're a little ... well ... nicer, you'll get what you want. Ignoring your health is showing. Get to bed early! You'll be fighting fit in time for the weekend's big surprise!

TAURUS April 21 - May 21

Fear of forgetting something has you trying to do more than is humanly possible. Be sensible – slow down! Jumping to conclusions financially can cost big bucks. If you're unsure about something, ask a pro for advice! The sun moving into Sagittarius on Sunday inspires plans for a winter getaway.

GEMINI May 22 - June 21

That skeleton in the family closet? It's not really a secret, and the effort you're putting in hiding it is time you could use to pursue something more fun – like romance. Look for love with a blue-eyed stranger. Jupiter boosts your finances, and a job you applied for long ago comes through!

CANCER June 22 - July 22

Relatives are already squabbling like noisy turkeys over holiday plans. Rise above the petty disagreements and stick to your own agenda, and peace will descend under the weekend Pisces moon. Look for cash from money earned years ago to land on your doorstep in an unusual way!

LEO July 23 - August 23

The Aquarius moon steers you to a group of people who share your life goals and the friends you make now will be friends for life. Saturn oversees your efforts to save money while shopping, and you'll easily find bargains, especially on Friday. Your partner needs extra attention this weekend.

VIRGO August 24 - September 22

Need motivation? Jupiter teams with Mercury to get you started this week. Look for a new approach to budgeting midweek – ask a Taurus for advice. There's someone new on your radar romantically – Saturday's intuitive Pisces moon inspires the perfect way to attract this cutie's attention.

LIBRA September 23 - October 23

You're mad and not going to take it anymore. But before you lash out, listen to your inner voice. Is it whispering that maybe you're at fault ... just a little bit? Don't judge others until you look at yourself! Leave your credit card at home this weekend – your desires are bigger than your bank account!

SCORPIO October 24 - November 22

Life isn't a race, but the way you're cramming so much into your days, it's like you think there's a prize waiting at the finish line! Take a breath while Venus and Neptune deliver new information that could change your agenda. Take time for a friend in a crisis Friday. It may save a marriage!

SAGITTARIUS November 23 - December 21

There's a fork in your life's road – which way will you go? Forget the same-old, same-old. Saturn sends you off in a completely new direction, and it holds the promise of fantastic life changes. Get ready to celebrate on the weekend, with a blast of fresh energy and a little romance too!

CAPRICORN December 22 - January 20

Your scattered mind has you worrying about everything from money to your health and the state of your love life, Goat child. Get a grip while Venus tours Libra and put all those thoughts where they belong – in the past! Join a friend for daily walks for energy and calm. The number 7 brings luck!

AQUARIUS January 21 - February 18

Seek others who love life while Mercury and Venus clash – no negative people allowed! Midweek sees you encouraging friends and family to adopt new technology, and you could invest in a computer or home security system. Look for advice about your love life from a relative this weekend.

PISCES February 19 - March 20

Worrying about others stops you following your heart, Fish. Saturn in Sagittarius says: Stop people-pleasing and be yourself! You've been keeping your nose to the grindstone and beefing up your savings long enough. Get out and play! Love finds you under a trellis twinkling with white lights.

DIVORCING HALLE SWEARS OFF MEN -AND MARRIAGE!

HUBBY NO. 3

HUBBY NO. 1
Baseball star David struck out

THREE strikes and Halle Berry is out! The 49-year-old beauty is divorcing third husband Olivier Martinez and now the Oscar winner is vowing to friends that she's done with marriage — AND MEN — forever!

"Halle has had it with love life drama," reveals an insider. "She's giving up on men."

"Halle and Olivier fought like cats and dogs until the bitter end. She's spent months kicking herself for making the same mistake not once, not twice — but three times."

"She even jokes with friends that if they gave out an award for worst taste in men, she'd clean up because

BABY DADDY
Gabriel tries to stay in touch with the daughter he fathered she is a winner when it comes to picking losers!"

The couple — who met in 2010 on the set of "Dark Tide" and married in July 2013 — announced their split on Oct. 27. But their impending divorce couldn't ever be more bitter than her feud with Gabriel Aubry, the father of her 7-year-old love child Nahla. Aubry was collecting $16,000 a month in child support from the furious former "X-Men" beauty, who went to court this year to stop the payments.

After divorcing second hubby Eric Benét in 2005, Halle vowed, "I'll never get married again, and I always hate to say never to anything, but I will never marry again." Says the insider, "Halle has enormous regret about not staying true to her word."

"She knew Olivier had a wicked temper. There were plenty of warning signs early on, like his 2012 Thanksgiving brawl with Gabriel."

Incredibly, Halle said she dumped first hubby — then-Atlanta Braves baseball slugger David Justice — because he was violent. She even got a restraining order against him.

"Halle used to be a dyed-in-the-wool romantic, and she believed the love of a good man could save her," says the source.

"But she's closed the door on ever getting married again — and gone so far as to say she's not even interested in dating."

"Hurtful and heart-breaking as it is, Halle is finally accepting that she's cursed when it comes to romance."

AMERICANS HEAL VIETNAM NAPALM GIRL

A VIETNAMESE child caught on camera being burned alive by a U.S. napalm strike has come to America for laser surgery to erase her horrific war wounds.

Now 52, victim Kim Phuc is getting treatment at the Miami Dermatology and Laser Institute to smooth thick scar tissue covering her neck, back and left arm. A graphic image showing 9-year-old Kim crying, and running naked as she burned, helped turn America against the Vietnam War in 1972.

Since then, she's been in emotional and physical agony. Kim's Miami doctor says the laser surgery should ease most of her pain, though her scars will never be entirely erased.

"The fire was stuck on her for a very long time," says Dr. Jill Waibel, who notes her scars are four times thicker than normal skin.

Kim's also been reunited with Associated Press photographer Nick Ut, now 65, who won a Pulitzer Prize for the photo.

HOLLYWOOD MOVIE BRAT JOINS TERRORIST KILLERS!

A SPOILED rich kid, whose dad is one of Hollywood's most influential directors, has become a terrorist turncoat looking to trick naive Western kids into joining al-Qaeda!

Once a pampered prince who attended private schools, loser Lucas Kinney — son of Patrick Kinney, who worked on Steven Spielberg's "Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade" and Mel Gibson's "Braveheart" — is now the bloodthirsty star of al-Qaeda videos promoting sickening violence and war against his homeland!

Lucas, 26, changed his

His famous dad helped direct 'Braveheart' and 'Indiana Jones' sequel name to Abu Basir al-Britani, converted from Catholicism to Islam — and may be training to become a suicide bomber.

The twisted radical, who now sports a long shaggy beard and totes deadly weapons, is said to be connected to the Syrian al-Qaeda-linked group Jabhat al-Nusra.

It's a far cry from his youth in Britain. Lucas took communion at a Roman Catholic Church, attended Catholic schools and even talked about becoming a priest!

But as a teen, he dyed his hair red and joined a series of rock bands, including a group named Hanna's Got Herpes! Pals say he turned radical after living in Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Vienna.

His mother, Deborah Phipps, fears he may die in an attack. She says: "We just want him to come home."

CHARLOTTE RAE'S HEARTBREAKING 'FACTS OF LIFE'

Sitcom star beat bottle, lost a son & wed a gay guy

SHE played a wise mother on the classic sitcom "The Facts of Life," but beloved actress Charlotte Rae endured painful real-life lessons when her husband cheated on her — with other men! "It just blew me away," says Rae. "I was absolutely devastated."

The 89-year-old's new memoir revisits her shock when composer John Strauss came out as bisexual after 25 years of marriage!

"It made me feel like I was not much of a woman," says Rae, "but we were friends and supported each other until he died."

Rae and Strauss divorced in 1976 — two years before she debuted her "Facts" character

Edna Garrett on "Diff'rent Strokes." John died in 2011 — but he wasn't Rae's only tragedy.

Her autistic son Andy was hospitalized at age 16 as a danger to himself and others. He died of a heart attack in his 40s.

Raising Andy was a "nightmare come true," says

Rae in the opening her book, "The Facts of My Life."

She also tackles her struggles with booze, and reveals she had treatment for pancreatic cancer — a disease that killed her older sister and mother.

As for remarrying, Rae says she "had little flings," but never found Mr. Right.

Charlotte is surrounded by the "Facts of Life" gang

Off-screen, alcoholic Charlotte learned "The Facts of Life" the hard way with a cheating gay husband and an autistic son. She's now 89 (left) and sober

MAUREEN O'HARA'S LOST DREAM!

SCREEN legend Maureen O'Hara died heartbroken that a planned film school to be named in her honor was never built in her native Ireland.

The facility was to be the crowning glory of the "Miracle on 34th Street" star's famed Hollywood career. But sadly, plans for the multi-million dollar institution, which would have been built in West Cork, fell apart in an ugly and bitter battle involving people who cared for the actress in her old age. The feisty red head died on Oct. 24 in her sleep in her home in Boise, Idaho, where she'd moved to be close to relatives. She was 95.

"She had to be crushed that the center was never built," says one insider. "It was a special dream of hers to leave something behind in Ireland."

'MYTHBUSTERS' GETS BOOT — HOSTS HATE EACH OTHER!

DISCOVERY Channel's pioneering reality series "MythBusters" is getting busted up next year — because co-hosts Adam Savage (left) and Jamie Hyneman can't stand each other!

After 14 seasons and earning the title of the cable network's longest running show, Adam and Jamie finally will be rid of each other — after a bonkers farewell to fans.

Scientist Adam, who eats up camera time, tried to be diplomatic about the end, saying, "It has been an incredibly productive marriage."

Jamie, who'd rather focus on building and engineering than being filmed, is more blunt. He says they NEVER got along.

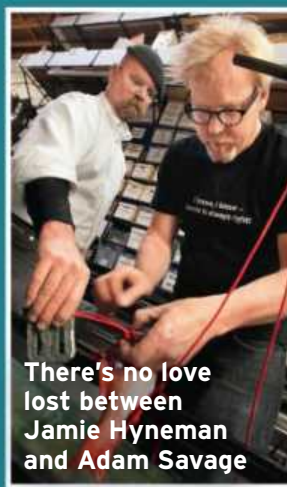

"We like to point out we've known each other for 25 years and never once sat down to have dinner alone together," he says. "We sort of managed to tolerate each other."

They'll continue to tolerate each other through one last season, which promises to blow up a cement truck and crush a 60-ton tanker with steam — and during a "MythBusters Live" tour that starts this month. But then they're done — and it's for keeps.

"I think it's probably safe to say continuing our on-screen relationship in front of the camera is probably not happening," reveals Jamie.

While hinting he thinks "MythBusters" has been a bizarre and terrible nightmare, Adam concedes, "The series finale is pretty amazing" and "we did find a way to say goodbye," which probably involves pain and blowing something up!

There's no love lost between Jamie Hyneman and Adam Savage

TV FACT

The phrase "jumping the shark" — used when a ludicrous gimmick on a TV show signals its downfall — was coined after Fonzie jumped over a shark tank on water skis in a 1977 episode of "Happy Days."

'BIONIC WOMAN' TURNS NCIS MOM!

BELOVED "Bionic Woman" star Lindsay Wagner is guesting on CBS' hit crime drama "NCIS" later this month – playing the mother of Agent Ellie Bishop (Emily Wickersham)! – when the agent takes a Thanksgiving trip back to her home in Oklahoma.

Bishop's past is starting to become a holiday tradition! But unlike last year's festivities, which had the "NCIS" gang stranded at the airport, this episode is more down-home and, thanks to Lindsay, bionic!

"NCIS" honcho Gary Glasberg is "super excited" about the episode, which airs Nov. 24. He reveals many of the show's producers worked

This isn't the first time Turkey Day serves as an opportunity for viewers to meet one of Bishop's relatives! Hunky "Battlestar Galactica" alum Jamie Bamber debuted last year as her husband Jake – so baring with Lindsay when she appeared on the first episode of "The Rockford Files" in 1974. "So there is all kinds of behind-the-scenes enthusiasm. And Lindsay is excited, too," says Gary.

'URBAN COWBOY' IS BACK IN THE SADDLE

THE 1980 John Travolta film about a cowboy trying to make it in the big city is getting a 21st century update, thanks to FOX. In this re-launch of "Urban Cowboy," rodeo circuit rider Kyle is forced to flee Mexico after messing with the wrong people. He winds up in Texas, while his past pursues him.

Mexican actor Alfonso Herrera, who plays Hernando on Netflix's "Sense8," nabbed the role of Kyle, while "UnREAL" beauty Nathalie Kelley is his star-crossed love, Gaby.

Debra Winger and Travolta were the original urban cowboys

Olmos

Belushi

Though the leads are relative unknowns, the supporting cast boosts significant star power.

TV veteran Edward James Olmos is Kyle's uncle Alfonso, an ex-hit man who reinvented himself. Al is seemingly living the American dream – until helping Kyle forces him to confront old demons. And Jim Belushi plays Gaby's dad, Marshall. The show airs next year.

Thanks to BetterWOMAN, I'm winning the battle for Bladder Control

Frequent nighttime trips to the bathroom, embarrassing leaks and the inconvenience of constantly searching for rest rooms in public – for years, I struggled with bladder control problems. After trying expensive medications with horrible side effects, ineffective exercises and undignified pads and diapers, I was ready to resign myself to a life of bladder leaks, isolation and depression. But then I tried BetterWOMAN.

When I first saw the ad for BetterWOMAN, I was skeptical. So many products claim they can set you free from leaks, frequency and worry, only to deliver disappointment. When I finally tried BetterWOMAN, I found that it actually works!

It changed my life. Even my friends have noticed that I'm a new person. And because it's all natural, I can enjoy the results without the worry of dangerous side effects. Thanks to BetterWOMAN, I finally fought bladder control problems and I won!

CRUISE DROVE LEAH FROM CULT!

ACTRESS Leah Remini is socking Scientology kingpin Tom Cruise with charges that he scared her away from the controversial cult!

The 45-year-old "King of Queens" cutie says the "Mission Impossible" star is so important as the public face of the religion that "being critical of Tom Cruise is being critical of Scientology itself." As a result, she says, members see you as "evil" if you talk against him.

Leah insists the cult has an "us against them" culture which destroys families. She insists she broke away in 2014 to protect her 10-year-old daughter, Sofia. But the group dismisses her as "self-absorbed" and claims she's just trying to peddle her bestselling new book, "Troublemaker."

The book details Leah's experiences with Scientology and Cruise's role in her exit.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW? JAMES BOND & HIS BEAUTIES!

SIX actors have brought their suave swagger to the world's most famous spy as they outsmarted evil villains, brandished futuristic gizmos, sipped martinis and loved the world's most beautiful women. As the 24th James Bond film,

"Spectre," goes global, here, for your eyes only, is a dossier on guys who played 007 and the screen sirens who loved them.

SEAN CONNERY, URSULA & HONOR RAVAGED BY AGE!

ORIGINAL 007 Sean Connery starred in seven spy adventures and defined the role. But the once-smooth operative, 85, is now a miserable Bond-basher and is so frail his main mission in life is surviving another day! Sean spends most of his time in the Bahamas, but looked so ghastly at a recent New York event that friends were shaken, not stirred — and fear he's near death! The macho actor, who has shocked fans by insisting it's okay to slap women, says he hates the character he created and refuses to promote the films.

The original Bond girl, Ursula Andress, who set male hearts racing as Sean's love interest Honey Ryder in "Dr. No," has also seen better days. The Swiss beauty, 79, who stunned the world at age 44 by having a son with then-28-year-old hunk Harry Hamlin, has piled on the pounds and is battling the bone disease osteoporosis.

Meanwhile, Honor Blackman, 90, the leather-clad lesbian Pussy Galore, who turned straight after romping with Bond in "Goldfinger," is battling the spine-curving disease scoliosis in London. Honor confesses she's becoming a hunchback — and thinks current Bond Daniel Craig does it better than Sean, who portrayed 007 in seven films from 1962 to 1983!

FEUD RIPS APART GEORGE LAZENBY AND DIANA RIGG

GEORGE Lazenby — the Bond who backfired — splits his time between L.A. and his native Australia. After starring in “On Her Majesty’s Secret Service” and refusing to do a second 007 flick, he developed a reputation as a hard-boozing diva.

His acting career faltered — and so did his marriages to publishing heiress Christina Gannett and tennis pro Pam Shriver. Today, the reformed alcoholic, now 76, has lost his dashing looks. He was also humiliated in a custody battle in which his daughter called him abusive!

He never had the respect of his stunning Bond girl, Diana Rigg, who played Countess Tracy Di Vincenzo. In fact, Lazenby accused Rigg of eating raw garlic before their kissing scenes, which she denies.

At 77, Diana is enjoying sweet success. Famous as Emma Peel on TV’s “The Avengers,” she lives in London, plays The Queen of Thorns Lady Olenna Tyrell on HBO’s hit “Game of Thrones” — and still detests loser Lazenby!

ROGER MOORE STOPS DRINKING AS BARBARA AND MAUD QUIT ACTING

DAPPER Roger Moore appeared in seven 007 flicks between 1973 and 1985. At 88, Moore’s sworn off martinis after developing diabetes. He also survived prostate cancer and has a pacemaker.

But he lives like a retired secret agent — squiring his wealthy Danish wife around Switzerland and Monte Carlo. He also visits his grandchildren now that his three kids have gotten

HAPPY ENDINGS FOR FAMKE & PIERCE BROSNAN

P I E R C E Brosnan, 62, brought Irish charm to four Bond films between 1995 and 2002. In real life, the "Die Another Day" star was hit by tragedy when wife Cassandra Harris died of ovarian cancer, leaving him with three children. But Pierce has found a fairy tale second marriage to journalist Keely Shaye Smith, and they have two kids of their own.

Although Smith's weight has ballooned, friends say loving Pierce wouldn't even give his ex-Bond babe Famke Janssen a second look. Famke, 51, wowed as Xenia Onatopp in 1995's "GoldenEye." The Dutch sexpot, who lives in New York but spends tons of time in L.A., has starred in "X-Men" and "Taken" movies. She's also been a United Nations Goodwill Ambassador for Integrity.

over him dumping their mom, Luisa, for widow Kiki Tholstrup.

He may have developed a thing for Scandinavian women while working with Maud Adams, the sexy Swede who starred in 1974's "The Man with the Golden Gun" and as "Octopussy" in 1983.

Now 70, Maud lives in L.A., is married to a retired judge and runs a cosmetics company, Scandinavian Bio Cosmetics. She hasn't done a movie since 1996.

Barbara Bach, who dazzled Roger as Major Anya Amasova in 1977's "The Spy Who Loved Me," hasn't done a film since 2008. Insiders suggest she may need to return to work — because she and ex-Beatle husband Ringo Starr are said to be having financial problems. They recently put their $3.85 million Colorado ranch on the market.

TIMOTHY DALTON & CAREY LOWELL: BIZARRE BUST-UPS

WELSHMAN Timothy Dalton, who brought his Shakespearian acting chops to two Bond movies in 1987 and 1989, lives in the Hollywood Hills with his 18-year-old son Sasha, who had a run-in with the law this spring after a loud house party.

Sasha's mother, Oksana Grigorieva, is no stranger to trouble, either, after hooking up with Mel Gibson — and becoming "Mad Max's" battered baby mama. Unlike Gibson, confirmed bachelor Dalton has stayed friends with his former lover after their 2007 bust-up.

But his on-screen gal pal, Carey Lowell, can't say the same. The beauty who played Bond girl Pam Bouvier in 1989's "Licence to Kill," is in a bitter $250 million divorce battle with third husband, actor Richard Gere, 66. After a stint as an Assistant D.A. on "Law & Order," Carey cooled off. However, she did reprise her Bond role in the 2012 video game, "007 Legends."

JILL St. John starred as Tiffany Case in "Diamonds Are Forever," and later lit up small screens. She splits her time between L.A. and Aspen, Colo.

Jane Seymour, who lives in Malibu, Calif., stunned as Solitaire in 1973's "Live and Let Die" before she played "Dr. Quinn: Medicine Woman."

Teri Hatcher, 50, increased her status playing Paris Carver in "Tomorrow Never Dies" and later led "Desperate Housewives." She lives in L.A.

BLONDE AMBITION

Hollywood starlet JEAN HARLOW puts her best foot forward – along with a very nice leg – as the original blonde bombshell fishes for fans in this 1930s publicity shot. The sultry beauty had already caught the eye of millionaire movie maker Howard Hughes, who cast her in the 1930 film “Hell’s Angels.” That role included her notorious line, “Would you be shocked if I changed into something more comfortable?” Jean was destined for fame, but personal happiness would elude her. After three short-lived marriages, she finally found love with fellow screen star William Powell. Sadly, their passionate relationship came to a tragic end when Jean suffered kidney failure and died at the age of 26.
